

PASTOR'S ARTICLE (CONTINUED)

2. James 1:2-4. The point? Christians can have joy amid trials because we know God will use our trials to produce faithfulness and maturity. James 1:2-4 says, "Count it all joy, my brothers, when you meet trials of various kinds, ³ for you know that the testing of your faith produces steadfastness. ⁴ And let steadfastness have its full effect, that you may be perfect and complete, lacking in nothing." The pattern is the same as in the Romans passage. The same three things are linked up: joy, suffering, and spiritual growth. "Trials of various kinds" do not mean that God has left you or stopped working in your heart, mind, and life. Trials are a natural part of life, but for the child of God, they take on a supernatural purpose to grow us in the experience of grace in Christ. We all need this reminder! We are to consider it joy when trials come our way because they are one of God's tools. He will use them to form and fashion us according to His perfect wisdom. He will use them to produce "steadfastness" i.e., enduring faithfulness. And then, steadfastness will "have its full effect," which is a deeper and stronger maturity in the faith, or as James says, "you may be perfect and complete, lacking nothing." "Perfect" in this context does not mean without fault, but whole or mature. It is essentially a synonym for complete, and together they mean mature rather than immature.

3. 1 Peter 1:6-17. The point? Christians can rejoice amid trials because we know God will use our trials to test and faith and fix our hearts more and more on future glory. 1 Peter 1:6-7, "In this you rejoice, though now for a little while, if necessary, you have been grieved by various trials, ⁷ so that the tested genuineness of your faith—more precious than gold that perishes though it is tested by fire—may be found to result in praise and glory and honor at the revelation of Jesus Christ." God testing His people is a major theme in the Bible. It means that He gives us trials to expose what is in our hearts and teach us to trust in Him in new and deeper ways. If we set our hearts on temporary things, we will stumble and fall. If we fix our minds on earthly things, we will not reach maturity. If our joy is tied to physical and personal comfort, we will not be able to rejoice in God when trials and sufferings come.

Joy, suffering, and spiritual growth are linked. Rejoicing, being tested, and reaching maturity go together. A crown of glory awaits you in heaven. He is faithful to sanctify, strengthen, and sustain you until that day. Keep "looking to Jesus, the founder and perfecter of our faith, who for the joy that was set before him endured the cross, despising the shame, and is seated at the right hand of the throne of God" (Hebrews 12:2).

PASTOR'S ARTICLE

We ended last week's sermon on a point that I did not have time to expand on or explain. The point was about how the Bible links joy, suffering, and spiritual growth for believers in Christ. Here are the three passages I mentioned under that point, along with some explanation and encouragement.

1. Romans 5:3-5. The point? Christians can rejoice amid suffering because we know God will use our suffering to grow us in endurance and Christian character. Romans 5:3-4 says, "Not only that, but we rejoice in our sufferings, knowing that suffering produces endurance,⁴ and endurance produces character, and character produces hope." Be encouraged, beloved, because you do not suffer in vain, you do not suffer alone, and you will not suffer forever. This passage is quite encouraging to me. God is at work in us and in our lives despite the hardship and anguish we face. God will strengthen you. He will produce spiritual "endurance" within us for our good and His glory. This endurance will produce godly "character," which further anchors us in the "hope" we have in Christ. That means, as we grow in godly character, we (1.) appreciate our eternal inheritance in heaven more and more, and (2.) live more and more in line with that hope, rather than just going with the flow of the world.
